America without Natives: Hannah Arendt's Defense of the Constitutional Republic

Mittwoch, 2.11.2022
um 18:15 Uhr (U2/00.25)

Darum wird es gehen:
„Hannah Arendt's attachment to ‚the American Republic‘ glances over an essential part of United States history. Her idealism is impossible to fathom without sidelining the unfreedom of African and Native Americans. This lecture examines the extent to which her highly selective account of ‚the American Republic‘ stems from a combination of privilege as a naturalized citizen, classical philosophy, and settler colonial memory.“

Der Vortrag findet statt im Rahmen der
